

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT WANTS MORE FAMILIES BROUGHT TO ALABAMA

The Agricultural Department of the State of Alabama has under way plans to locate thousands of families in Alabama and on Alabama farms during the year 1916. The plans have been gone over carefully and approved by the Governor, the state treasurer and the commissioner of agriculture and are now in the hands of Emmet A. Jones, chief of the Immigration Department, to put into operation.

The program as submitted by the chief of the Immigration Department is as follows:

To print a state land book telling correctly the character and quality of the soil of each county in the State; the products that can be successfully and profitably grown and marketed; the educational facilities offered by each county; the average temperature each month of the year; in total devoting about 5200 words of plain detail facts about each county and its land opportunities and agents will be given an opportunity to list their lands for sale and the conditions of the purchase by filling in a land blank to be supplied by the department which will specify a guarantee price.

The Alabama Land Book.
This book will be shown as the official land book of the State and will be distributed by the use of publicity throughout the north, east and west to trained farmers who desire to locate in Alabama and who are sufficiently capitalized to become owners of landing progressive, prosperous farmers.

Plan a New Departure.
The State has no appropriation with which to conduct this campaign therefore this plan is being submitted to land owners privileging them to list "For Sale" cultivated and cut-over lands at a minimum cost, the total of the funds to be expended in this work the direction and approval of the Governor, the State Treasurer and the Commissioner of Agriculture, thereby assuring the co-operators maximum result for the amount invested. No lands at exorbitant prices will be listed, neither will worthless lands be considered.

Co-Operation Earnestly Desired.
The department most earnestly requests the support and full co-operation of the various departments of the railroads operating in Alabama. The bankers and commercial clubs of the state in their efforts to bring into the state a large number of the most successful farmers and stockmen and fruit and truck growers in the United States, as the department believes that Alabama offers more varied opportunities than any state in the south.

The Official Endorsement.
We have carefully gone over the plan submitted to the Commissioner of Agriculture by Emmet A. Jones, chief of the Immigration and Markets Bureau of Alabama, looking to raising by popular subscription from patriotic citizens and land owners a sum sufficient to advertise properly the agricultural resources of Alabama, and to exploit the advantages to be found in this State among home seekers who would make desirable citizens. In view of the fact that tax values of the State would be enormously increased if the vast areas of our idle lands were placed in proper cultivation, and in order to assist land owners, whose lands are now upon the market, in finding suitable purchasers for their lands, we hereby endorse the aforesaid plan and will unite our best energies and activities in making the program of the State Immigration and Markets Chief, for the development of the state by inducing immigration, a success.

Chas. Henderson,
Governor.

W. J. Lancaster,
State Treasurer.

Jas. A. Wade,
Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

The full purpose of the movement is to "Make Alabama Grow" by putting into cultivation its rich idle lands, which the department believes is easily possible with the support of the State press, the land owners and those who have lands for sale.

Write Emmet A. Jones.
Land owners, railroads, bankers and commercial clubs are requested to communicate with Emmet A. Jones, Chief of Immigration and Markets Bureau, Montgomery, Ala.

BURNS TO DEATH AT HARTFORD

Little Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Turner, While Cutting Paper Dolls Before Fire, Victim of Flames.

As a result of burns sustained yesterday when her clothing caught fire, the little five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Turner, of Hartford, died in that city Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock.

The child was standing before a fire and cutting out paper dolls. Her mother must have been in another room or some place about the house, for she did not see her child when the flames first caught. It is supposed that the girl got too close to the fire and that the lower part of her dress first attracted the flames, which spread rapidly to other parts of the body.

Frightened and not knowing what to do, the child ran from the house screaming. A little playmate of hers made a brave effort to save her friend by trying to smother the flames with a garment, but to no avail. Presently, the mother arrived and attempted to put out the flames, but in doing so she received painful burns about the arms.

BROWN FUNERAL

Funeral services of Walter L. Brown, pioneer Doyhan druggist, street, was held at the house, South Gates street, this morning about 11 o'clock, immediately following the services at the First Baptist church. Rev. H. H. McNeill and Rev. G. K. Williams officiated. Many floral offerings were sent by friends and sympathizers. A large number of friends were at the funeral, and went with the casket to the city cemetery where interment was made.

Wilson Hoarse; Scores a Hit

"As Years Roll On" Gives Fine Blending of Comedy, Drama and Music—Cast Excellent—Other Observations.

There is a hoodoo in town and he holds forth at the city auditorium on nights when we expect much and receive sparingly as many have learned by experience.

There is Al H. Wilson, for instance, really and truly a sweet singer whose reputation is already made. He celebrated his debut in this city last night and unfortunately he was not in good voice. He was hoarse and could not sing the higher notes. In one song, "As Years Roll On," the ordeal was so trying to him that he was almost compelled to stop. Yet, he played a game and made the best of an unhappy state of affairs. Mr. Wilson, this we doubt to exposure in traveling and to his experience with some of our sudden-changing weather, contracted a cold. This could easily be detected and prevented him from appearing at his best. However, one cannot over come matters beyond human endeavor, such as the removal of a cold on short notice.

The hindrance with which he was handicapped—a severe cold—did not prevent Mr. Wilson from singing, and in that his voice was sweet and good to listen to. With a cold throat in and a few more sopranos, Wilson is better than any single artist we have had in "Four or Five" this season. His audience was quick to grasp the situation and quick to sympathize and forgive. Should he return at some future date he will be accorded a rousing welcome, for if he sings as well in voice as he does with a cold he must indeed be an excellent vocalist.

The play was a splendid Dutch comedy and every member of the cast was up to expectations. The piece is well written and well acted and has just enough sub scenes to offset the comedy and add an element of drama. Comedy, drama and music, happily blended in a play that is partly pastoral and partly comical, with no objectionable or suggestive lines.

The work of the entire cast, including the star, was so clever that the audience could easily overlook Mr. Wilson's indisposition. We hope that Mr. Wilson will soon recover and that his show will receive the liberal patronage it deserves. And we hope to hear his voice in Doyhan again under happier circumstances.

The attendance, while satisfactory, was not what one would have expected considering the class of play and the ability of the cast. However, we are not yet ready to admit that musical comedy with unmerciful bad flamboyant and high-kicking chorus girls is the only kind of material that will boost box office receipts in Doyhan.

The Next Play.

For the next attraction, Tuesday, Manager F. Thomas has booked a rip-roaring farce, that has miles of fun in it, should we measure the piece that way. All press accounts we have seen praise this attraction highly. It is conceded to be the funniest thing brought South this season, unless it is "Twin Beds." And it is reported that "A Pair of Sixes" has the original metropolitan cast. We trust, and from the best information available, the report is true. The press agent of this attraction—and we usually do not talk after press agents—was told a few days ago of the show which have appeared here so far. "If that is the best you have had," he said in substance, "we should worry." All of which is very encouraging for what would be without hope. "A Pair of Sixes" we predict, will make a good year. The "highbrow" drama stuff, for some reason, is not so popular as on days ago when Shakespeare's plays filled theatres. The public wants to forget the serious and vexing problems of the routine grand and the public wants to laugh, for this is by no means a prosaic age. It is an age of music and levity, opposed to Puritanism and formalities. Every body wants something different and they are in quest of the new, or something they may call new. "If it is to laugh," some wise man said. We say this as a statement of what we believe the truth, and not for argumentative reasons, for one could not realize and dominate over the trend of modern thought and get anywhere.

CONSECRATION SERVICE

Short talk on Consecration by Mrs. Geo. Cotton.

Dismissal by Mrs. Smith. Leaders, Mrs. J. E. Childers, and Mrs. R. O. Hay.

When John D., Jr., Was a Boy

"It's no wonder young John D., Jr., made a hit out there in Colorado in a very nest of enemies. Young John D. was always a resourceful chap."

The speaker was a Baptist deacon of Cleveland, says the Washington Star. He went on:

Once, when he was a little boy, John D., Jr., said to his father: "Father, George Smith is going to have a birthday party, and I've got to give him a present."

"But John D., Jr., had been attending a congressional anti-trust investigation that day, and his cross-examination had ruffled up his temper, so he snarled:

"Oh, it's a present here and a present there all the time. I'm just about sick of it."

"John D., Jr.'s face fell, but he said nothing. He just turned and walked out of the room."

"Well, the next day things were better at the investigation, and John D., Jr., regretted his harshness toward his little son."

"He came home that evening and said: 'I'm sorry, son. I was wrong. I'm just about sick of it.'"

"Go look in my overcoat pocket, huddle. You'll find a nice present there for your friend Smith's birthday party."

"That John D., Jr., shook his head."

"It's too late now, father," he said. "I liked him today so's he wouldn't invite me."

"That John D., Jr., shook his head."

"I'm sorry, son. I was wrong. I'm just about sick of it."

Union Services at Baptist Church

Union Thanksgiving services were held this morning at the First Baptist church at 10:30 o'clock, and the edifice was packed with worshippers.

Rev. Robt. L. Campbell preached an able Thanksgiving sermon. Rev. G. K. Williams offered invocation and Miss Henton Logan sang a solo sweetly. She was in good voice.

The services were opened with music by the choir, followed by the invocation. Owing to difficulties with the pipe organ, Miss Logan had to assist and Mr. Campbell preached. In the interim the organ was fixed, and then Miss Logan sang, this being the last individual number on the program. A collection was taken for the poor of the city.

The service was very impressive and from every point of view was a pronounced success.

French Market Coffee

People Then Traveled Miles for the Old Secret Blend

There were no Pullman cars a hundred years ago—no 20th Century Limited Express trains.

Traveling was hard, wearisome and long—yet for all that people would go a day's journey for their favorite coffee—the famous secret blend.

In those days there was only one place where they could get it—at the old French Market, New Orleans. Going to town for this celebrated coffee was an event, for the best people of the South gathered at the tables of the Old French Market to discuss the affairs of the day over their coffee cups.

So that in French Market Coffee, now sold everywhere in perfectly sealed tins, you still find that exquisite aroma, flavor and goodness for which people traveled clear across the country over a hundred years ago.

Sold everywhere in sealed tins. French Market Coffee is so good, that if you say it does not delight you your grocer will gladly refund your money.

Send for 12 cup sample and booklet of the Story of Old French Market. We will also send names of grocers in your town who sell French Market Coffee.

There's a lot of moving this fall among people who farm on rented land. Probably old farmers are moving to other places and new ones are coming in. The fact that the land is so scarce, and the price so high, is the reason.

RENTS, WAGES, AND TAXES

(New York Times.)

Upon behalf of the American Federation of Labor a spokesman has presented a written statement of workmen's views regarding local tax reform, a subject which has come to include the reduction of rents by taxation, if the scheme works. Strangely enough the idea does not appeal to labor for this reason:

"The members of organized labor hold it as a fact that the level of wages depends mainly on effective trade-unionism. The wage scale of a trade union is uniform, whatever the variation in the rents paid by its members. A union which controls the supply of labor of its occupation fixes the scale with far more regard to the profits of the employers than to the rental of habitation."

Apparently the only thing a union does not consider in fixing the wages which it "controls"—although a union does no work—is the worth of the service. But that is another story. The thing to be remarked is that labor looks only to the wages it receives, and overlooks the conditions which reduce what labor receives when the wages are spent. It is true that rent depends upon supply and demand, but taxes are in relation to the supply as certainly as the demand of labor.

The statement asserts that unionism increases wages by $300,000,000 annually. So far as those wages are expended in making buildings dear it reduces the supply, and increases the demand in proportion to the supply. Even more direct is the relation of labor to the taxes, to which the spokesman of labor professes indifference if only the wage is kept right. If labor allows taxes to be increased unduly, or to be collected on bad principles, it lays a burden on the landlord which labor thinks it does not feel, because it never sees a tax bill. Yet landlords' taxes are reflected in the laborers' rent bills as surely as the lord can manage it. If the landlord is unable to shift the taxes, and he is dissatisfied with the rent, he stops building until the relation between supply and demand is adjusted to the satisfaction of both landlord and lessee.

It is a pity that the relations are not more direct. It is a pity that labor thinks that it can vote taxes up and rents down. It is a pity that any class is allowed to fix prices without regard to supply and demand, or value given and received. It is a pity that Congress is not above suspicion of being influenced by votes which are cast with reference to selfish interests, rather than public interests. But that is the situation. The only remedy is education upon a subject which makes dull reading for those who think that they know a trick better than good government.

LOOKING TO THE WAR'S END.

(Savannah News.)

A very great deal of interest has been aroused by the publication in New York of an article in which this paragraph appeared:

"The United States government led Great Britain and Germany to bid against each other for nearly a million and a quarter bales of cotton last September, thus bringing about the present advance of over 4 cents a pound. It is said that Great Britain agreed before declaring cotton contraband to support the price by buying futures in Liverpool and New Orleans, and that Secretary McAdoo got into communication with the German interests and impressed them with the idea of buying a million bales of spot cotton to be held in storage until the end of the war or until some arrangement could be made whereby the cotton could be exported to Germany. It is said that the British government only had to buy 275,000 bales during the entire move upon which they made about $4,500,000. The German interests still have the cotton in storage in the South, which is equivalent to taking 1,000,000 bales of cotton out of the exportable surplus of this crop of 6,200,000 bales. About 1,700,000 bales have already been exported, leaving about only 3,500,000 bales available for export between now and August 1, 1916."

This is very important—if true. It has been frequently reported that foreign interests were buying largely of cotton in this country and storing it for future needs. Feeling assured that cotton would be scarce and high when the end of the war would allow the resumption of normal consuming activities, ordinary prudence would suggest some measure of preparation for that contingency.

Besides England and Germany, other European countries have been credited with buying considerable quantities. Naturally no cotton spinning country would wish to be practically unsupplied with raw material when the demand for it would be particularly urgent.

If southern holders have been relieved of so great a part of their load as is represented, it will of course be much easier to carry the rest. And doubtless there are a few Southern holders who would not be averse to having a few bales to sell when the demand exceeds the supply.

MEAT CAUSE OF

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their effort to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get stagnant and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

THE WAY OF DEVELOPING THE CATTLE INDUSTRY

Co-operation is the Keynote to Success.

By Eiley Q. Arnold, Fayette County Demonstration Agent.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

In my county I know of several unsuccessful attempts to improve cattle by bringing in a good bull. These failures were due to two causes. First, the farmers were not sufficiently interested to patronize the bull. Second, almost every bull bought in a tick free territory and brought into our tick infested county dies soon after ticks get on him.

A cooperative scheme has been worked out by which a community takes shares in a good bull and a dipping vat. Pay 10 to 20 farmers pay $15 each towards the purchase of a registered bull of the breed of choice. One member of the club cares for the animal, the expense to be paid by the stock company, the profits resulting from fees of services of the bull to be prorated among the individual stockholders at the end of the year. When a cow is brought for service, she is run through the vat in order that no tick will be likely to get on the bull.

In my county I have organized eight of these clubs. We have purchased nothing but the best Shorthorns. There are about 100 farmers owning shares in these bulls, and already since February of this year, when we ordered these animals, there have been 120 cows turned to these bulls. By the end of the year we look for double this number. This we have done by co-operation. One man who takes a $15 share in a $200 bull gets just as much good of the bull as if he owned him exclusively, and the expense of upkeep in practically negligible to one man. Every stockholder has as much influence to get patronage for the bull as if he were the exclusive owner, and when you get 20 farmers in one community talking the merits of a bull, you are going to see results. Within a year we intend to have a couple of cars of calves to put on the market. This we could never have done by individual ownership of these males.

WHAT SOME OF THE CORN CLUB BOYS HAVE DONE

The Boys Have Surprised the Men.

By I. B. Kerlin, State Agent in Boys' Corn Clubs, Auburn, Ala.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

Corn Clubs were organized in every county of the State in 1914 and 1915. In 1914 there were 3220 members of 14 Corn Clubs, making an average yield per acre of 51.32 bushels. The average yield in the entire state was but 17 bushels, hence it will be observed that the average yield of the boys was 34.32 bushels greater than that of the State. It costs a boy an average of 46 cents per bushel to raise his corn, while the cost of the farmer to raise corn is something like 50 cents per bushel, or 24 cents more than it costs a boy. When we estimate corn at $1.00 per bushel we find that the boy made a profit of $27.72, while the average farmer made a profit of only $5.10 per acre; therefore, the average corn club boy made a profit of $22.62 more than the average farmer.

The Boys' Corn Club Work has been conducted in this State for six years, in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture, and the College of Agriculture and many other educational forces throughout the State. During this time many great records have been made in corn growing. Alabama has furnished three Champion Corn Growers besides scores of others who have made enviable records.

In 1914, 15 boys made more than 140 bushels to the acre, with a profit ranging from $140.25 to $77.90. Walker Dunson, Alexander City, R. F. D. 1, was again the champion of the State. He not only excelled in corn growing, but proved to be equally as good a cotton and oat grower as well. Many boys are very enthusiastic over the Four-Crop Club which is conducted in cooperation with the Central

The Cow.

The cow, or member of the genus Bos, is the most common animal in the world. It is a ruminant, and its food is converted into milk. The cow is a domestic animal, and is used for milk and meat. It is a very important animal in the world, and is found in every country.

War Prayer.

O Lord, help us to tear the soldiers of the foe to bloody shreds with our shells, help us to cover their smiling bodies with the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire; help us to wring the hearts of their offending widows with unavailing grief. Blast their hopes, blight their lives, water their way with their tears.—Mark Twain.

Walls Made by Hand.

It seems hardly credible that it was almost to the close of the eighteenth century that most walls were made by hand. Other countries were very slow to follow the lead of England in getting out walls in large quantities. In France for nearly a century light walls for carpenter work were made from wire, but until 1880 they were made by hand with a hammer.

Verbal Economy.

Little Johnny's mother asked him the other day how he liked some new play-fellows, whose family had lately settled in the village. "They play all right, mummy; but they use awful naughty swear-words sometimes." "Oh, Johnny!" "You needn't mind, mummy, I don't use swear-words back. I only say to them 'Dittol'!"—Stray Stories.

Cossack "Adventurers."

The word "Cossack," itself, is a derivative from the Turkish prototype of "adventurer," which is a typical word for the description of these roving horsemen. The Cossack population of Russia amounts to roughly 2,500,000 men and women, and they collectively own some 140,000,000 acres of Russian territory.

Dried Apples Popular.

The drying of apples has become one of the great industries of the day, and people who live on the farms and in villages and towns are just as enthusiastic about the prospect of apples and sauce from dried fruit as are the people living in large segregated sections of our large cities.

To Get Rid of Rats.

A good way to get rid of rats is to collect some thin chips, pieces of rhinoceros, or tin, and pour over them enough molasses to cover them. Sprinkle dry lye over the chips and place them in every rat hole you can find. The rats will soon move out.

For the Teeth.

To prevent tartar forming on the teeth dip an orange-wood stick in clear lemon juice and rub it all over the teeth and close up to the gums four or five times a week. Once or twice a day rub the gums with glycerin.

Hard Job.

A Long Island man promised to return to his wife if she would acknowledge that he was black. It is pretty hard to change natural facts by an acknowledgment of the opposite.—Minneapolis Journal.

Movements of the Heart.

The heart of an average man makes about one three-thousandth of a volt of electricity at every beat, and an instrument sensitive enough to measure it has been invented.

Gasoline and Salt.

When cleaning spots use a little salt in the gasoline and there will not be the objectionable ring left on the goods when dry.

Uncle Eben.

"When a man has a general growth," said Uncle Eben, "he tries to kind of apologize for it by picking 'bout de weather."

Don't Blame the Machines.

Perhaps one reason for motor speeding is that automobiles feel their gasoline just as a horse does its oats.

No Kick to It.

Agreeable advice is like pleasant medicine, easy to take but of little benefit.—Lafayette Courier.

Playmates for CMMs.

If you want your children to learn fidelity and loyalty let them have dolls and cats for playmates.

Fine Asbestos Thread.

Asbestos has been spun into thread so fine that it requires $2.000 feet to weigh a pound.

Wanted His Hair Cut.

"I want my hair cut and no talk," said a 16-stone man, with a lawn-the-earth air, as he walked into a barber's shop and sat down, says the Philadelphia Ledger.

"The—" commenced the man in the apron.

"No talk, I tell you!" shouted the heavy man. "Just plain hair cut. I've read all the papers, and don't want any news. Start right away now." The man in the apron obeyed. When he had finished, the man, who knew everything, rose from the chair and surveyed himself in the glass.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed. "It's really true, then? you barbers can't do your work properly unless you talk."

"I don't know," said the man in the apron. "You must ask the barber; he'll be in presently. I'm the glazier from next door."

THANKSGIVING

We are so used to food and drink,
O God,
No used to restraint, that we count
Them of small moment when time comes to take
Of all our gifts the whole amount.

Through sense of justice these seem ours,
O God,
The wages of our daily care.
We plowed and sowed and reaped, and hence
The harvest seems our rightful share.

But these all not the measure up,
O God,
Or even half recount the score
Of all the free-gift blessings which in love
Into our lifted hands you pour.

But for one, more than all else,
O God,
We render thanks, our heads bowed low—
For PEACE! That in our homes or 'neath our far-flung flags
No death-timed martial bugles blow.

For blessed PEACE; and that our men,
O God,
Feed not the cannon's glutton maw,
And that our tender women, scourged and bent,
Weep not beside the pyres of war.

—Sam Beaumont Kennedy

At the conclusion of the program hot chocolate and cake was served.

Conrad-Brantley Wedding on Monday

Troy, Ala., Nov. 24.—Taking affairs in their own hands, and not caring to wait for the formality and ostentation of a church wedding, Mr. Druid Homer Conrad and Miss Madge Brantley, who were to have been married in the Baptist church Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock, eloped to Montgomery Monday afternoon and were married by Dr. Charles Stakely, pastor of the First Baptist church at his home in the capital city.

The announcement of the engagement of the young people was made by the parents of the bride some time ago and the invitations had been issued bidding friends to the church for the wedding Wednesday afternoon. But the young people planned differently.

Monday afternoon Miss Brantley, Mr. Conrad and Mr. Conrad in Mr. Conrad's car, called at the home of Mrs. Rawlings on Murphree Street, where the sister of the groom, Miss Beulah Conrad, was the guest, having come to be present at the wedding, and invited them for an auto ride. When all were in the car, they quickly sped out the Montgomery road, although the plans were known only to Miss Brantley, Mr. Conrad and Mr. Conrad.

Arriving in Montgomery they were met by Mr. George Brown, who was to have been best man at the marriage Wednesday. He had procured the license according to previous arrangement and repairing to the home of Dr. Stakely the marriage vows were spoken.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad left that night for New Orleans for a wedding trip.

Mrs. Conrad is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brantley of this city. She is a brunette of striking type and possessing much personal magnetism. She finished her education at Belmont College, Nashville, where she and her cousin, Miss Nell Brantley, whose marriage to Col. Fred Henderson occurred last week, were room mates.

Mr. Conrad is a splendid young man from Lexington, N. C., but has made his home here for the past year and is much liked in business and social circles.

New Century Club

Mrs. A. T. Marchman was the charming hostess to the New Century club Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The several apartments were beautifully arranged with a profusion of ferns, palms, and cut flowers.

The first thirty minutes of the meeting was devoted to business. The delegates to the Federation, Mrs. George Malone and Mrs. Ed Harmon, made splendid reports. This district, of which Mrs. C. E. Harmon is the capable leader, won the gavel—making the best report and adding more clubs to the Federation than any other district. This county was also one out of only two in the State who came up with illiteracy charts.

At the conclusion of the business the following was enjoyed: Program—The Despised Jew. Roll Call—A Jew Famous in European History.

Paper—The Treatment of the Jew in England and other Countries.—Mrs. W. W. Barnett.

Pen Portraits:
(a) Isaac of York.
(b) Rebecca.

—Mrs. W. M. Hunter.

Paper—A Comparison Between Isaac of York and Shakespeare's Shylock.—Mrs. A. Y. Malone.

Paper—Which do you like best, Rebecca, the Jewess, or Lady Rowena? Tell why you hold your opinion.—Written by Mrs. W. S. Wilson and read by Miss Sue Malone.

Reading or narration of the scene between Rebecca and Rowena in the last chapter of "Ivanhoe."—Mrs. C. E. Harmon.

Mrs. Oscar Stallings and children have gone to Montgomery for an extended visit to her mother, Mrs. Ben Crawford.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

SCHIFFMAN'S NEW BRONCHIL REMEDY

For Bronchial Asthma, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Coughs.

N. H. McCallum is willing to lose the profit which would be made on a bottle of Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant, and announces that they will sell a regular 50c bottle of this remedy for 25c (half price) to persons presenting the coupon below, but only for the first bottle to each person.

Although a remedy for Bronchial Affections, and coughs or Colds might not have been required so far this season, it is more than likely that some member of the family will need some before it is over, and it will pay to take advantage of this opportunity now and buy a bottle at half price, instead of putting off until later and paying full price.

While losing money, they have decided to give the public an opportunity of trying this most excellent, successful new remedy as with Schiffmann's famous at no greater price than they would have to pay for almost any ordinary cough remedy, and are positively certain that it will be found the best medicine ever used for Cough, Colds, Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup and Hoarseness.

Besides having a chance of securing the very best remedy possible, at half price, you also get as much as would cost you $2.00 to $3.00 for the same quantity of ordinary, old-fashioned, ready-made kinds, because a 2-ounce bottle makes a whole pint (128 teaspoonful) when mixed at home with simply a pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water, as directed. It is altogether different from any other medicine. It positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine, or any other narcotic, as do most cough medicines. It is most pleasant to take, and absolutely the best and safest for children. Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy, as if it does not give perfect satisfaction, and even more—if it is not found the best remedy ever used for any of the above complaints, go back and the above druggist will refund your 25 cents just the same as with Schiffmann's famous Antheodor. Can anything be fairer? You will be the sole judge and your money is not wasted if you are not satisfied. Better buy a bottle at once, while fresh in memory otherwise you might forget it. The cost could also be reduced by inducing a neighbor or some friend to buy half a quantity.

TWENTY-FIVE CENT COUPON—NO. 1

This coupon and 25c is good for one (only), 50c bottle of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expectorant at N. H. McCallum's Drug Store, if your name and address is filled in.
